

The impression generally prevails among the close political observers in the State, that Secretary of State Warner is ahead on the gubernatorial question.

The Madison alderman who was charged with stealing from Wilson's drugstore in that city, was brought to trial yesterday, but the jury disagreed. He acknowledges he took certain articles but claims he intended to pay for them some time.

It is said Chairman Parkinson, of the Democratic State committee, is supremely indifferent as to whether his party makes nominations this fall. He has promised to quit politics after the convention meets. He is discouraged in trying to bring the Democratic party to life in Wisconsin.

It appears that Colonel E. W. Keyes is paving the way to pay pretty close attention to the practice of the law. A dispatch from Madison to the Milwaukee Sentinel says he has just fitted up one of the finest law offices in the State. It is enriched with a fine library as well as with elegant carpets and handsome furniture.

The Milwaukee Republican says, "Not to be a candidate for a State office is to be distinguished from the mass of men in Wisconsin." But the State Journal says "there never was a time when there was as little political excitement as now," and that "it can scarcely be realized that within three months, there will be elected in Wisconsin a full list of State officers, numbering eight, and a Legislature; but such is the fact." The fact is the State Journal has not been alive to the fact that there will be an election this fall.

Rich and extensive silver fields have been discovered near Fort Sill, in the Indian Territory, and Indian Agent Hunt asks for troops to keep intruders out. This is the usual opening chapter of an old, old story, and its this will be the same as that which always follows. If there proves to be a silver field worth working white men will force their way to it, and the Indian will be the one to move out. No known field of great mineral wealth will long be allowed to remain undeveloped, because the Indians want it for a hunting ground.

The Janesville Gazette, Fond du Lac County, and the Milwaukee Republican are all wrong in the view that they take of the proposed nomination of Mr. Denstorf by the Democrats with the expectation of getting the German vote—Madison Democrat.

All the Gazette knows about the proposed nomination of Mr. Denstorf for Governor by the Democrats, comes from the papers which support him for such nomination. If he is nominated it will be because he is regarded the strongest man the party can induce to run on the ticket, and because it is thought that he will draw more heavily than any other candidate would on the German vote. The Gazette has implicit faith in the intelligence of the German voters, especially in the Republican portion of them, and for that reason firmly believes that Mr. Denstorf would prove a weak candidate for the Democrats.

The State board of control has incurred the ill-will of some of the employees of the State hospital at Madison. That is a pity. The State hospital never knew before what it was to be dealt with justly, and now there is a general kicking. There have been 137 employees about that institution at one time—enough to run a State government—and the board out of the number down to 111. This will decrease the pay roll about $5,000 a year beside the board, and the apportionment of employees in such institutions being generally in good order and always ready to do justice to a square meal, a saving of $5,000 more is effected. The cutting off of unnecessary officers and useless employees has aroused the indignation of those who have lost their soft berths. They now propose to club together and go in for repealing the law which authorized the creation of the board. The fact that there has been a lopping off of a lot of persons who have been living off the State for years without rendering any satisfactory equivalent therefor, is evidence that the board is doing its duty and will not legislate out of existence.

The country has come to believe that in case the President's death there would not be that disturbance in financial and political circles which six weeks ago was feared would take place. The event of death would be a national calamity because it would carry away one of the brightest statesmen in this country, and one of the purest of our great public men. Mr. Vanderbilt says "there could be no pretense or excuse for a panic, except on the ground that severe and revolutionary political convulsions would follow a change in the Presidency. But where would these come from? Who would excite them? I have full confidence that Mr. Arthur would follow as closely as possible the policy of the present administration, and would be fair to all factions and eminently conservative. I therefore see no grounds whatever for alarm."

It is thought by some of the most cool-headed men in the Republican party that should Mr. Arthur become President through the fatality of the President's wound, there would be no important changes made in any of the principal offices. Some go so far as to contend that Mr. Blaine would not be removed. But these men are more sanguine of Mr. Arthur's conservatism than reason would dictate. Every member of the cabinet would at once send to the new President his resignation. This is customary, and it would be for the President to decide whether it would be policy to accept them. It would be more than likely that he would not hesitate to accept that of Secretary Blaine, because of the unfriendly feeling existing between the Secretary and Mr. Arthur and his friends. If the new President were wise, he would retain the other members of the cabinet. They are not on unfriendly terms with the Vice President. They have taken no part in the fight between Mr. Garfield and Mr. Conkling. And beside all that, they are making splendid records as cabinet officers. Mr. Windom has achieved almost marvelous since the 4th of March, and Postmaster General James has adopted a vigorous policy which has broken up star route rings, saving the government hundreds of thousands of dollars a year. Secretary of War Lincoln is a worthy cabinet officer, so is Attorney General MacVeagh, and those men should not be deposed. There does not exist an excuse for their removal should the President die, and it is the judgment of some thoughtful men that in the event of Mr. Arthur becoming President he will ask them to retain their portfolios.

THE UNITED STATES AS AN ASYLUM FOR Nihilists.

It is a very fitting opportunity for the people of the United States to seriously reflect upon the question of permitting Nihilists and assassins to come from abroad and take refuge in this country. Leo Hartmann came here from Russia, has been wined and dined, has made speeches, and has been interviewed by authority of the metropolitan newspapers. There are a great many persons in the United States who express sympathy with Hartmann. They are countenancing nihilism, assassinations, murders, and general disorder. They are probably not aware of this fact, and probably they do not see the odious position they are taking. It is true that Leo Hartmann did not kill the Czar of Russia, but he did something quite as criminal. By his own mouth he is condemned as murdering innocent persons who were on the train that was blown up, by the mine he constructed. He has killed other persons who gave no offense whatever—killed them deliberately—and confesses that their death could not be avoided because he had his plans laid to blow up the train that the Czar might be killed.

This cold blooded and cowardly murderer, the man who vauntingly acknowledges that he killed helpless and innocent persons, comes to this country for protection, and it is a serious question as to what the United States will do about it. Suppose Russia should ask that he be surrendered and taken back to the scenes of his murders, what answer could our government make? So far there has been no demand from the Russian authorities for the arrest of Hartmann, and for this reason Secretary Blaine has taken no steps in the premises. If our government should refuse at all, it would be on technical grounds, but still there are hopes that if the demand was made, it would be complied with. Appalling as has been Hartmann's crimes, it is not likely that he will ever be punished. He comes to this country as a hero in the sight of a great many persons, and even some Americans are making much of him.

Hartmann deserves death for his crimes, and in the United States he should receive no pity or protection. His course is at war with all social order and civilization. It breeds assassination, murders, communistic mobs, the destruction of property, and social calamity. It makes such men as Guttena, Denis Kearney, and Crowe, the infernal machine man. It brings insurrection against our advancing civilization. It tends to weaken the government. It poisons the minds of the lower classes of people, and creates a thirst for the blood of those who have political responsibility. If Hartmann was a reformer, a man of tender sympathies, a friend of good works, a promoter of good works, a man who wanted to build up and not to tear down, a man who wanted to protect innocent lives and not to destroy them, he would find a friendly greeting in the United States.

But there are no circumstances conceivable which could win the slightest sympathy of Americans "for the infamous and cowardly creatures who aim at the massacre of innocent, irresponsible and helpless human beings, upon the mere chance that some political object may thereby be reached." It is reported that Hartmann has declared to become a citizen of the United States. It is hoped this is not true. This country does not want him nor any of his like. He would make a bad citizen, a disturber of the peace, a law-breaker, and a leader among the worst element that can curse the country.

THE PRESIDENT.

Special to the Gazette, UNOFFICIAL BULLETIN.

EXECUTIVE MANSION, Aug. 19, 8 a. m.—Information has just been received from the sick room in substance, that the President passed a comfortable night. He was somewhat restless during the early part of the evening, owing to pain in affected glands of the neck. This pain subsided later, and afterwards the President rested easier. His pulse is reported by physicians this morning at about 102. No nausea or vomiting occurred during the night.

ROYAL SYMPATHY.

Queen Victoria to Mrs. Mrs. President Garfield.

WASHINGTON, Aug. 17.—The following telegram was received at the Executive Mansion this afternoon: Mrs. Garfield, Washington: I am most anxious to know how the President is to-day, and express my deep sympathy with you both.

THE QUEEN, Osborne.

The following reply has been sent: To Her Majesty, Queen Victoria, Osborne: Your Majesty's kind inquiry finds the President's condition changed for the better. In the judgment of his medical advisers, there is strong hope for his recovery. His mind is entirely clear. Your Majesty's kind expressions of sympathy are most grateful to him, as they are most gratefully acknowledged by me.

LUCRETIA R. GARFIELD.

DR. BLISS QUESTIONED.

And Gives an Explanation of the Glandular Swelling.

WASHINGTON, Aug. 18.—Dr. Bliss has been interviewed regarding the trouble with the parotid gland, the surgeon making the following explanation:

"The swelling at the gland is by long illness and enteebled blood. I am suffering from the same complaint myself. It has no bearing on the President's case. Such inflammation is common after long illness, and may follow from a variety of causes."

"Has the President taken nourishment to-day with good results?" asked a reporter.

"We have given him several teaspoonfuls of kornish, which have been assimilated without distress or even the slightest indication of nausea."

The tone of the stomach has improved vastly since yesterday. The wound is doing splendidly. The discharge of pus is now trifling compared to that of last week, and the tax on the overworked system is proportionately less. Yes, as far as the wound is concerned, the President is convalescent, and in a few days I hope that the condition of his stomach will be such that whole some food will be regularly administered in the natural way."

On the direct question whether the swelling of the gland of the neck was to be regarded as an unfavorable symptom, and could be considered to have arisen from pyemia, or blood-poisoning, he said:

"The report that this swelling is due to blood poisoning is absolutely false. There is not the slightest trace of pyemia anywhere about the President. If there was there might be little abscesses about the surface. There are none. This swelling is one of the changes usual in glandular work. There is nothing unusual or alarming about it, and it does not give us serious concern. The President is a little easier from it this evening, and has less pain."

"What treatment do you propose to pursue in regard to it?"

"We shall, for the first, endeavor to soothe it. Failing in that, the swelling will undoubtedly suppurate, and taken on the whole, if it suppurates it may perhaps be regarded as a good indication rather than otherwise. Such swellings often appear at the close of typhoid and other fevers and at the termination of a surgical fever in gun shot wounds. This often arises when the wound has ceased to suppurate, or is about to stop suppurating, and for these reasons the swelling cannot be regarded as an alarming indication."

Gray Hairs are Honorable. but their premature appearance is annoying. Parker's Hair Balsam is popular for cleanliness and promptly restoring the youthful color.

GOING UP.

Excitement in the Grain and Produce Market—Prices Going Up.

NEW YORK, Aug. 18.—The Evening Post says: "At the produce exchange there was a renewal of the excitement noticeable of late, and the effort of the shorts to cover drove prices up 1 to 4 cents, the greatest rise being in oats. Wheat closed weak and at an advance, while corn and oats were firm. Flour advanced from 10 to 15 cents per barrel. Pork was firm, and lard was again higher."

St. Louis, Aug. 18.—It is stated here that St. Louis parties are heavy holders of rye in Chicago, and that they are likely to make it lively for the shorts there before they get through. Rye has advanced very sharply during the past few days, and there is a good deal of talk about a squeeze, if not a corner.

Des Moines, Iowa, Aug. 18.—The Des Moines grain operators are over one million dollars ahead in the Chicago deal. One man clears over $121,000; another started with $11, and to-night has $2,100.

GENERAL NEWTON.

He is Arrested in Lynn for Forgery.

Boston, Aug. 18.—Thomas A. Marvin, alias General B. A. Moulton, alias General Cunningham, alias H. V. Moore, was arrested in Lynn to-day on a charge of forgery of a draft for $750 from the cashier of a Madison, Wis., bank on the First National Bank of Chicago. This was made payable to a prominent banker in Chicago, by Marvin, in whose favor the draft was made. The alleged crime is said to have been performed at Richmond, Mass. One of Pinkerton's detectives has been after Marvin for some time, and finally ran him down in Lynn. Marvin has been boarding at the house in Nahant street since Friday. He was down street this forenoon, and had entered a clothing store when City Marshal Shaw and the detective appeared. The latter struck the stranger lightly on the shoulder and called his name, which act caused Marvin great surprise, and his discomfort was very marked for a few minutes. His calm and dignified bearing soon returned, and he was taken to the station. He was well dressed, and appeared like a metropolitan banker. He possessed the sum of $177 in money, a superior gold watch, gold-mounted pencils, a plain gold ring marked H. V. Moore, and other articles of good quality. He is alleged to have been engaged in many irregularities but by the aid of good lawyers has escaped punishment. A short time ago Marvin married a lady who moves in the highest social circles in Richmond. His age is apparently about 55 or 60 years.

Boston, Aug. 18.—Pinkerton's detectives say Marvin is known to have married ten women for the purpose of aiding him in swindling schemes. For three years he had been living at New Haven with his wife and little girl. He often disappeared from there for months at a time, and always returned and settled up his bills. He was gentlemanly and dignified in his bearing, and won the respect of his neighbors at that place. He was known there as General Newton.

MILWAUKEE, Aug. 18.—A special to the Republican from New Berlin, Wis., says: "Valentine Schmidt shot three bullets into his wife Catherine this morning with probable fatal effect. Schmidt married his wife a year ago, and soon after there was trouble about money, and last winter Schmidt went away. Yesterday he suddenly returned, and appeared at Kleeberger's tavern, where his wife, a daughter of the proprietor, was making her home. He met his wife, when there was an immediate altercation, and at once Schmidt drew a revolver and fired three bullets into his wife, one of which passed through her breast. She is nursing an infant. Schmidt ran out of the room, jumped into a buggy, and tried to escape, but was caught by those who came to Mrs. Schmidt's assistance by the noise of the shooting. She cannot live."

ANOTHER EXTENSION.

Dubuque, Aug. 18.—At a meeting of the board of trade this evening, a committee was appointed to confer with a delegation from Hazel Green, in relation to the extension of the Chicago, Milwaukee & St. Paul road from Shullsburg to Dubuque, which would give a through line from this city to Milwaukee.

THE O'MALLEY'S

WILKESBARE, Aug. 18.—Dr. A. P. O'Malley is a young practicing physician of this city with a large practice. He has been located here for some years. He is a brother of James Malley who is figuring so conspicuously in the Jennie Cramer mystery. James was here about a year ago and cut quite a swell by his lavish expenditure of money and general gaudy manners. Walter Malley is a cousin of James. Both are sons of wealthy gentlemen, who are Irishmen by birth, and whose original name was O'Malley, the physician in the city, retaining the old name. The latter says that James and Walter have always been allowed plenty of spending money, and that they have led of late what is generally termed a fast life. "The doctor returned from a visit to New Haven yesterday, where he saw his brother and his cousin, and he asserts that both are innocent of any crime which may be connected with Jennie Cramer's death, and seems quite positive that the investigation will end in their favor finally."

Cured of Drinking.

"A young friend of mine was cured of an insatiable thirst for liquor, which had so prostrated him that he was unable to do any business. He was entirely cured by the use of Hop Bitters. It allayed all that burning thirst; it took away the appetite for liquor; made his nerves steady, and he has remained a sober and steady man for more than two years, and has no desire to return to his cups. I know of a number of others that have been cured of drinking by it."—From a leading Dr. R. Official, Chicago, Ill.
